++ Valid for broadcast between 0600 and 1800

Headline:
Bright and showery today; cloudy, wet and windy on Thursday.

Today:
Rain in southeast England clearing, leaving a mix of sunshine and showers for most areas. Showers focused in eastern areas by afternoon, some heavy and thundery, while some western areas turning mostly fine. Light winds, so feeling pleasant in sunshine.

Tonight:
Many areas becoming clearer; distinctly chilly, with odd mist patches, even grass frost. Showery rain continues across parts of Scotland, while wet, windy weather approaches southwest and western fringes later.

Thursday:
Rain moves northeast across most parts, heavy in some western areas, patchy in the far south and far north. Turning windy, gales in some western and southwestern coastal areas. Cool.

Outlook for Friday to Sunday:
Very unsettled on Friday with wet and windy weather for most, gales in the south. Drier and less windy over the weekend, but still with showers or rain. Staying cool.
